Islamic Community Center Update

6-19-2020

The Path is Clear to the Islamic Community Center

Just 5 months ago this was a maze of dense trees and brush. Now look at it. A long driveway, graveled parking area, and a graded area for the Islamic Community Center. Looking at a nice, colorful drawing on the wall of a conceptual building or architectural plans on paper may not always get you excited. But when you witness it coming together and knowing you had a part in this is exciting and a blessing!

The ISCNY logo on the right will also take you to the ISCNY web page where you can make a secure donation.

Crushing and Grading

Heavy equipment breaking and crushing rocks for fill and grading the pad of the Islamic Community Center. Our landscape architect, Ed Keplinger of Keplinger Freeman Associates placed the Islamic Community Center in the best location based on the topography and composition of the land.

You can see that we can see the amazing progress with the site development and soon we will interview architects to work on building drawings. Phase 1 of the Islamic Community Center is not far away and will become a solid structure for our Central New York Muslim community.

“New York is the anomaly - we reopened and our rates continue to come down, but only because we continue to remain smart and vigilant in this fight against the COVID virus.”

—Governor Andrew M. Cuomo

Phase Three: Capital Region, Central New York, Finger Lakes, Mohawk Valley, North Country, Southern Tier and Western NY can enter Phase Three of reopening.
